Description My Email Account

Why isn't my comcast email updating. Comcast email is not updating. How do i update my comcast email settings.

An updated Gmail for Android has started rolling out in the Google Play Store. This wasn't totally unexpected considering that last month we showed you some leaked slides from a Google I/O conference that showed some changes to the application. For Android smartphone users sporting Android 4.1 or higher, the update allows them to reply, archive or delete email from the notifications shade without opening the app. Want to refresh the inbox to see if that mail that was just sent has arrived? Now, all you need to do is "Swipe down to refresh". And certain icons that were on an action bar at the bottom of the screen like compose, and search, are now on a top action bar. Those with Android 4.0 or higher will notice a faster search, even when offline, and there is the usual bug fixes and performance enhancements. For those still rocking a phone using Android 2.2, the update brings improvements to performance and adds new Labels API for third party developers. And we can't forget the new swipable sidebar labels. The update will eventually show up in the Google Play Store, if not today, than tomorrow. If not tomorrow, than the next day. In other words, this is an update that will be pushed out to the Google Play Store in waves. If you're that impatient, you can sideload the updated app from this link. source: GmailforAndroid, AndroidPolice via Phandroid Microsoft launched add-ins for Outlook on iOS early this year but promised to provide the same features on the rival platform. Well, today is the day that Outlook users on Android get to benefit from the same functionality. The Redmond-based company is now rolling out add-ins to Outlook on Android users with Outlook.com and Office 365 commercial email accounts. On top of that, Microsoft announced that it will bring add-ins to Gmail users on both Android and iOS platforms. Aside from the add-ins that made their debut on iOS such as Evernote, Microsoft Dynamics 365, Microsoft Translator, Nimble, OnePlaceMail, Outlook Customer Manager, SmartSheet, and Trello, Microsoft confirmed it is launching new add-ins, including Wrike, JIRA, MeisterTask, Gfyca, and Mojilala. In order to enable all these add-ins announced by Microsoft, you'll have to head to Settings / Add-ins and tap the + sign next to the add-ins that you want to use. More details about these new add-ins launched today are available at the link below. source: Microsoft Comcast email services are considered the best in the industry for various reasons, including secure services, instant sending and receiving emails, and advanced capabilities offered for free.
